The World Federation for Mental Health is pleased to announce the 2018 International Trauma Summit. This will be held at the JW Marriott in Houston and we are expecting 500+ trauma professionals, international non-governmental organizations, international policy makers, people with lived experience, advocates and trainers to join us for this important event.

Natural disasters and violence facing the world today are occurring at a pace which far surpasses the resources and people mobilized to deal with the health and mental health effects of the trauma. It is time that there be a global conversation to develop policies and best practices for governments and Non-Governmental Agencies (NGOs) to minimize the cost in health and productivity. There is a direct impact from the prevalence of trauma seen in all of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals. All 17 areas are negatively affected by a population that has to deal with ongoing stress reactions and uncertainty. Governments who ignore that impact do so to the detriment of their ability to thrive. We will start the conversation and come up with a Call to Action to begin the process of healing for our world. As global citizens, we will unite to begin developing guidelines and build awareness of the cost we are all paying by ignoring the role governments and other global entities can play in minimizing trauma and its effects.

Join the global conversation! As a sponsor or exhibitor, you will be showing your support for our Call to Action to minimize the impact of trauma throughout the world. Be a part of this initiative to create a world in which torture, human trafficking, internal and external displacement, and willful community destruction are the exception. Promote your products, services and brand to more than 500 attendees and be recognized world-wide as a compassionate and innovative leader in your field.

WFMH is an international membership organization founded in 1948 to advance, among all peoples and nations, the prevention of mental and emotional disorders, the proper treatment and care of those with such disorders, and the promotion of mental health wellness. The organization's broad and diverse membership makes possible collaboration among governments and non-governmental organizations (NGOs) to advance the cause of mental health services, research, and policy advocacy worldwide.
